

Dear Bishop Oliveto,

I have many fond memories of my time at PSR, which was just a few years ago. Negotiating through the course requirements and ensuring that we had met them all was no easy task, but your amazing support and pastoral presence is something that I cherished. While you may not have been the designated student chaplain, you certainly played an important role on the faculty team providing spiritual guidance to me and so many others.

I never wanted to miss Tuesday Chapel if I knew that you were to be in the pulpit. It was a joy to learn that you were serving Glide Memorial United Methodist Church, knowing that you would bring a challenging and encouraging word every Sunday to that historic and prophetic setting. Imagine my excitement when I learned that you had been called to the episcopacy, a wise and valiant decision on the part of the Western Jurisdiction.

As a fellow clergyperson (UCC), I honor your tenacity, faithfulness, and grace in the times of challenge and celebration. You are a role model to thousands of women who have traversed the sometimes-rocky road. As a former student and proud alumnae of Pacific School of Religion, I thank you for your commitment to the universal church.

Congratulations on receiving the PSR Distinguished Alumni Award this year; a well-deserved recognition of your powerful leadership. Be well and stay strong dear sister in Christ.

In gratitude and solidarity,

Rev. Linda Jaramillo, M.Div. 2005
